Local game Lucky Pucks coming to the Community Center

THE COLONY, Texas — Lucky Pucks is a fast-growing, customizable table game akin to shuffleboard that is handcrafted right here in The Colony. Place 4 City Councilman David Terre recently commissioned Dan Corthell, The Colony resident and owner of Lucky Pucks, to design a The Colony-themed board which the Councilman will be donating to the city during a presentation at noon on Friday, Jan. 27, at The Colony Community Center, 5151 North Colony Blvd. The public is encouraged to attend.

“Lucky Pucks is a really fun game to play and it looks great with our city graphics,” Terre said. “It was a pleasure to work with Dan and I’m proud to share the finished product with the community.”

Lucky Pucks is played by taking turns sliding 30 pucks into numbered slots to score points. According to its website, every Lucky Pucks game board is unique – both in appearance and playability. Lucky Pucks boards also fold up for portability.

“Our patrons at the Community Center will certainly enjoy it,” said Pam Nelson, Director of Community Services. “The fact that it’s portable will make it great for use at other activities, too. We’re thankful for this generous donation to the community.”

Plans are to leave the city’s Lucky Pucks game at the Community Center for a while before perhaps rotating it around for use at different city facilities by residents and city staff. For more information, call the Community Center at 972-624-2246.
